

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A telecommunication network management method and unit are disclosed. Connection requests are received and the possibility of setting up a connection is determined from parameters including time parameters in the form of time intervals.

- 5 The connections database is updated allowing for the time parameters. The method finds applications in telecommunication networks.